Come learn about the plans for developing the Bayside lot into “Dorchester Bay City,” a $$$$multi-million development the size of two Empire State Buildings with significant potential impacts on racial, economic, and environmental justice.

Featuring commentary and discussion from UMB professors Ken Reardon and Jack Wiggin and members of Dot Not 4 Sale, a resident-led community alliance committed to centering the needs and voices of families most-at-risk of displacement throughout Dorchester.

This event is sponsored by: Undergraduate Student Government | Graduate Employee Organization | Faculty Staff Union | Classified Staff Union | Professional Staff Union | College Republicans | College Democrats | Izabel Depina, Vice-President, Public Higher Education Network of Massachusetts (PHENOM)
