

Interested in reducing the negative effects of grades & grading?

Equity, Efficiency, Empathy: A Presentation on Labor-Based Grading

Come learn about labor-based grading from UMB faculty who have been collaborating on a multi-year study of this grading ecology. Susan Field, Brittanie Weatherbie-Greco, Dan Messier, and Brittany Peterson will discuss what labor-based grading is and how it might work to cultivate anti-racist values, enable success for students of all backgrounds in your classroom, and reduce the emotional toll of grades and grading when it comes to qualitative work such as student writing.

Wednesday
April 10th
2:30 - 4
Zoom

Click to Register & Recieve the Zoom Meeting Link

Sponsored by the FSU Anti-Racism Grant & Writing Across the Curriculum (WAC) Program

Anyone requiring disability-related accommodations in order to fully participate in this event should go to www.ada.umb.edu and complete the request form. Questions: Email brittany.peterson@umb.edu